

The Minister of Finance and Economic Planning Dr. Uzziel Ndagijimana today presented to both chambers of parliament, the Budget Framework Paper (BFP) and midterm budget estimates for 2020/21-2022/23.

Addressing lawmakers, Minister Ndagijimana noted that while Government continues to implement measures to promote exports diversification and reduce exposure to external shocks and imbalances over the medium term, economic challenges posed by COVID-19 outbreak called for particular actions for quicker response.

“Following emergency spending on health and social assistance towards the end 2019/20 financial year, the 2020/21 budget will address short and medium-term economic consequences of COVID-19 on businesses and individuals. GDP growth is expected to be lower but with the right policies in place, it is likely to bounce back to around 8 percent by 2022,” Minister Ndagijimana said.

Key priorities for the 2020/21 national budget are: Strengthening the health system; increasing agriculture and livestock productivity; scaling up social protection coverage; creation of employment opportunities through investment in public works and support to micro, small, medium and large enterprises affected by COVID-19.

Other interventions will include support for Made in Rwanda; promotion of digital technologies to improve service delivery; improving access to quality education; eradicate malnutrition and stunting and strengthen disaster preparedness and management.

It is prepared in accordance with article 32 of the Organic Law on State Finances and outlines the Government's macroeconomic and fiscal policy stance as well as the budget policy over a 3-year horizon. The 2020/21-2022/23 BFP provides basis for the preparation of the 2020-21 budget which will be read in June 2020.
