

Qatar Airways has announced that it will resume direct flights between Doha and Kigali starting May 14, 2025, after a suspension of more than three years. The airline last operated this route in December 2021, according to Travel and Tour World.

The relaunched service will feature four weekly flights operated by the Airbus A320, strengthening Rwanda's position as an emerging regional travel hub.

This renewed connection is expected to provide greater convenience for global travelers and boost tourism and business opportunities between the Middle East and East Africa.
